

6.3: ART

In the production of an object, art has appeared as the concept of making something with order, beauty, and discipline to please the human's senses, to develop the thought and to educate.

In art, there are the fine arts as literature, music, painting, architecture, drawing, and dance. However, dance is more by the artistic expression than the object of art.

Art is a discipline to produce something with care. Since the beginning of its conception many centuries ago, art has been developed through time and still exists today.

Then, art has permitted many realizations. The general idea of art is the way to realize an object by using a specific method. To the realization, we need knowledge to stimulate our thought and to develop our creativity.

So, art is a discipline and we must follow rules of creation with morality.

Art requests a high level of knowledge before realizing something. It can also be beautiful as with aesthetics which characterize the beauty, the regularity of the form, and the originality of it.
